Honor Luther Robertson With School Name

The new west side elementary school has been named in honor of Luther Robertson, member of the Murray City School Board for twenty-nine years. Mr. Robertson was a member of the board for the period of time and was chairman of the board for the last nine years.

The announcement of the naming of the school was made yesterday during an open house at the school.

Several hundred persons attended the open house and viewed the eight school room building. Four of the rooms are now in use and four of the rooms are vacant.

An effort has been made by the City School Board to keep abreast of the increasing school census over the past years and the school, constructed west of 18th street and south of Main street, is the latest construction in this effort.

The new school is as modern as current technique will allow. A long hallway runs the length of the school to allow easy ingress and egress. Tile is used along the lower parts of the hall wall to make for easy cleaning.

A large combined auditorium, cafeteria, and gym is located on the east side of the building. This is equipped with a stainless steel kitchen.

The building is designed as a 12-room school building, however only eight rooms have been constructed thus far. When the need arises, the other four rooms will be added.

The school area is surrounded by new streets. The street in front of the school is sixty feet wide so that parking and traffic problems in the future will be reduced to a minimum. The street on the south side of the school is wider than usual.

Dennis Taylor is principal of the elementary school.

Mr. Robertson, working on the school board until the end of 1953, was instrumental in the construction of many of the city school buildings. He took an active part in planning ahead, visualizing the need of added school space in the future.

The last building considered by Mr. Robertson, as chairman of the school board, was the W. Z. Carter school on South 13th street.

Dick Sykes is the present chairman of the school board and made the announcement yesterday of the selection of a name for the new school.

M. F. Crass, Jr. Dies On Sunday

Maurice F. Crass Jr. died suddenly yesterday morning in the Cumberland River bottoms where he and four other companions were preparing a duck blind. He was 31 years of age, and a partner in the firm of Crass Furniture Company.

His untimely death was attributed to a heart attack, and although he was rushed from the location of the attack to the hospital in Paducah, it was felt that he succumbed shortly after attack occurred.

Crass was with Thomas Emerson, Roy Devine, John Gregory and his brother A. B. Crass when he was stricken.

Crass was a member of the First Christian Church where he was a deacon, was secretary of the Murray Retail Merchants Association, a member of the Murray Junior Chamber of Commerce, and had been active in the Boy Scouts and the United Fund Drive.

As a member of the Murray City Council, he headed up the Sanitation Committee as its chairman. He also served on two other committees in the Council. In his position as chairman of the Sanitation Committee of the Council, Crass spearheaded the drive to establish a municipal waste collection system and sanitary landfill system for the city. This drive culminated in the successful launching of the system last Friday to give the city a clean and modern facility.

Mayor Holmes Ellis today, commenting on the death of Crass, said "Maurice Crass, Jr. demonstrated the highest ideals of democracy; he was able, energetic, fair and friendly. His untimely death is a great loss to the citizens of Murray, and a tragedy to his family."

Although young in years, Maurice Crass impressed all of those who knew him with his business ability and his organizational capacity. His friends were numbered in the hundreds.

He is survived by his wife Jo; one daughter, Martha Gay Crass, age 5; one son, Gary Crass, age 8; his parents Mr. and Mrs. Maurice F. Crass, Sr.; two brothers A. B. Crass and Sam Crass; grandsons Murray and an aunt, Miss Rosalind Crass of Nashville, Tennessee.

He was a member of the First Christian Church where the funeral was held at 2:30 today with Rev. Howard Nichols officiating. Burial was in the Murray cemetery.

Murray Electric System Taxes Are $40,636.11

Tax payments by the Murray Electric System for 1961 amount to $40,636.11, the system announced today.

According to the tax report, the 1961 payment brings the total taxes paid since the electric system began operations in 1942 to $302,497.82.

"We're happy to contribute our fair share of taxes," Edward Ferguson, Superintendent of the electric system, said. "We realize what this tax money means in the way of better schools, better medical care, better streets, and better communities. Based on the current tax rate, within the next 15 years,

Murray Electric System will pay over $1 million in taxes. The report indicated that the $40,636.11 tax payment is distributed as follows: City of Murray, $11,163.47 (including $1,782.40 hospital tax); Murray Graded School District, $17,167.71; Common School District, $8,915.00; Calloway County, $6,863.86 (including $1,293.20 hospital tax); and State of Kentucky, $4,826.07.

Murray Electric System's tax rate is based on 100 percent book value of the system. As the system's value increases each year so does the tax payment.

"It's interesting to consider where our tax money goes," Ferguson said. "For instance, we've determined that the average annual operating cost per student in City of Murray schools is $242 per year. Then, our tax payment to the Murray Graded School District can pay the annual operating costs for 71 students. Also, we've estimated that, in the next five or six years, our taxes which go to the hospital, will provide one $22,000 patient unit. We're glad the electric system can do its part in providing for these facilities."

The report noted that the Murray Electric System is the largest taxpayer in the city and in the county.

MAURICE F. CRASS, JR.

FEELINGS AND EMOTIONS are difficult to express in words when a young man of the ability and capacity of Maurice Crass, suddenly passes from the scene of activity. Although only 31 years of age Maurice accomplished much in his relatively short life. He had successfully entered several facets of our community life, and left his mark of progress.

He did some excellent work in the organization of young men, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and did equally well in his work with the Boy Scouts, the United Fund, and other civic functions.

As a City-Councilman he unflinchingly took over a problem which had met with failure in several previous attempts. A workable municipal waste collection for the city has been tried several times, but a program never met success. Maurice accepted the assignment and guided a program to completion just two days before his death.

In the business field he became a partner in the Crass Furniture Company and worked with his father to build a substantial business.

Maurice Crass was the type of young man to whom we look to take on the larger problems of the future.

We would certainly not be so presumptuous as to offer an answer as to why one so young is taken as he enters the beginning of his prime years. God alone can answer this.

We do know this however, a young successful Christian sets an example. His being taken by the Lord may lead others to Christ, and what greater accomplishment can a man attain.

Our sympathy goes to his family and his friends. Murray can ill afford to lose young men of his caliber.

Murray Realtors In Position To Aid Home Owner, Roberts

Many Murray area families are expected to use a new home loan insurance program of the Federal Housing Administration to make practical their purchase of existing homes needing some modernization. Hoyt Roberts, president of the Murray Board of Realtors said today.

Established by the Housing Act of 1961, the new FHA program provides for the insurance of home improvement loans of not less than $2,500.00 or more than $10,000.00 for a period of up to 20 years with a maximum permissible interest rate of 6 per cent. This was one of the few sections of the omnibus housing bill that had the support of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and of virtually all segments of the shelter industry.

The new program is designed to help home owners secure financing on convenient terms for basic renovation jobs to existing housing. Mr. Roberts pointed out. Such renovation or modernization may include many things such as new roofing and insulation, a new heating plant and plumbing, kitchen improvement, the addition of a new bedroom or bathroom. Almost every Realtor in Murray has among his listings of houses for sale existing homes in good neighborhoods which have attracted the interest of prospective purchasers because of the amenities that are a distinctive feature of older homes—larger homes, established neighborhood, extensive landscaping, and so on," he said.

"In many cases, house-hunters have been attracted to these homes but have hesitated to buy because they have felt that the house needed modernization in some respect. The high interest rate and monthly repayment schedule of such modernization under previous prevailing lending programs in addition to the purchase financing have acted as a deterrent. The new FHA program will be a real help in the solution of this problem and should make possible the consummation of many sales that are now hanging in the balance by keeping interest rates down and reducing monthly repayments by spreading them over a longer period.

Mr. Roberts went on to say that many Realtors—members of the Murray Board of Realtors and hence of the National Association of Real Estate Boards—are prepared to offer additional help to families thinking of buying existing homes and negotiating an FHA-insured home improvement loan.

"Our members know reputable contractors in Murray who are interested in the modernization business and highly skilled at it," he said. "Some of our people have already contacted these contractors and secured estimates of the cost of the desired improvements. Or, if they have not already done this, they will be glad to do so if the prospective buyer would like this assistance. All of this information will be supplied to buyers to make the modernization job quicker and easier. This is a part of the professional service rendered by Realtors to persons who buy or sell real property through them."

Murray State Gallops To Victory Over Southern

Murray State's "reconstructed" Thoroughbreds galloped to a pleasing 77-55 victory over Mississippi Southern here Saturday night.

The opening game of the season drew 3,000 fans to the MSC sports arena now being enlarged.

Ron Greene, the only veteran performer on the squad, paced a good Racer offensive effort with 21 points. Coach Cal Luther's sophomore-studded team turned in a creditable performance and held a commanding advantage throughout the contest.

Scott Schlosser's opening basket put Murray into a lead it relinquished only briefly, in the early stages of the contest, when the Golden Giants were on top 8-7 and 10-9.

The cold-shooting Mississippi club went scoreless for six minutes after leading 10-9. The Racers picked up 14 points for a 23-10 advantage with more than eight minutes left in the half. Murray led 38-29 at the half.

Greene's two baskets and a fielder by Schlosser spread the gap to 15 points as the second half began. Jim Jennings gave Murray its biggest lead of the game at 75-49.

Murray State had three other players in double figures. Schlosser had 16, Jennings 14, and Al Varnas scored 14. Roy Danforth and Joe Grubar led Southern with 16 and 14 markers in that order.

The Thoroughbreds connected on 36 of 88 from the field for 47 per cent. Southern shot a low 26 per cent with 17 of 65. However Murray only made good 5 of 14 free tosses while Mississippi hit 21 of 27. The Racers dominated the rebounding 67-46.

Murray's freshman squad got off to a blistering start with a 121-61 win over the junior varsity of David Lipscomb of Nashville.

Tom Officer led a five-man offensive attack with 30 points. Benny Gohert and Byth Hill scored 22 each. Gary Seay picked up 16 and Eddie Ford added 13.

Murray, facing a rugged schedule of games in rapid succession, faces San Fernando University Wednesday, University of Miami

Friday, and Arkansas State on Saturday. All three are home games.

IGNORES DRAFT REQUEST

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — George Gresham has decided to disregard the Army's request that he report to a local armed forces center.

Gresham got a letter last week saying Army records indicated he has an "undisputed military obligation." The Army told him to show cause why he shouldn't be assigned to a ready reserve unit.

"I'm in good health and could dance a jig anytime," he said. "But I don't reckon they'd want me anyhow."

Gresham is 80.

CHAPTER 25

SAM FELLOWS waited until Billy Shivers was forty yards off before he spoke. Then he leaned toward Alec Temple.

"Son," he said, "at times like this, it's allus best to play dumb. Even at the cost of pride."

Alec understood about the spilled coffee now.

"I'm sorry," he said, feeling simple-minded, a real dube. "I was scared for Rusty, I guess. That's all I thought of."

"I know. And don't get me wrong. I ain't scoldin' you. We just don't want to let on what we know, that's all."

A little shiver went through Alec. He remembered the way that Shivers had looked at him when he'd awakened. That look had frightened him, and now he wondered again, as he had earlier, if Sam feared him, too, not as a man, but as a hunter.

"He means to kill Rusty, doesn't he?"

"That's what he's bein' paid for."

"Does he know we hunted him yesterday?"

"Maybe, maybe not. Could be they didn't hear the hounds down at Fred's place. But he'll know soon enough. We just got to make the most of the time we got until he does."

Billy Shivers, trailing a catfish horse and leading a chained hound, came past the fire. He waved at them and grinned.

Passing out of camp, he called, "Tir all right, you can wait on me now—at the kill."

Then he was gone, the shapes of himself and his animals blending softly into the gray day.

Of a sudden, Sam grew earnest.

"Now we got to be quick," he said to Alec. "But not too quick. Mainly we got to be quick at the right time."

Alec nodded. There was nothing he could say to that.

"Right now, you can bring in the mounts," Sam said. "Hurry! It don't matter if he sees."

Alec scrambled up to do Sam's bidding. There might be hope yet, he thought; if they hurried enough, they could catch up with Shivers.

When he came in with the mounts, Sam was still at the fire.

"Sam," Alec said, "he's going to get away. We better hurry."

"Let him," Sam said. He began to pour the coffee into the fire. "You can saddle up now, if you like." He glanced away toward Shivers. "Ain't quite time to really hurry."

It was for Alec, though. Running to the point of sight, he grabbed up all he could in one load and staggered back. On his second trip, he brought the saddle blankets, and then fell to rigging the two mounts. Sam, cowering with the coffee-pot, watched Shivers begin to ease off toward the northwest.

"I could get the hounds now," he said, as if he had all day. "Keep again there."

Alec didn't have to be told. By the time Sam returned with the hounds, he'd finished with Jock and was well along with Sandy. Picking in to help Sam kept watching Shivers over Sandy's back. The other hunter was working toward a ridge.

"Pretty near time to scout," Sam said as he finished a cinch. "Soon's he turns them hounds loose. You can mount if you like, now."

Alec got up quickly, then looked to Sam for word to move off. But Sam remained where he was, his eye yet upon Shivers, who now began to pass from sight behind the ridge. Then, when he was altogether forward, while it seemed to Alec that better time could be made with Sam riding, too, Sam had once said that tethered hounds, when led by a mounted hunter, often snagg'd their chains or got snarled up with each other.

Nor did it pay to let them run free, either—not yet, anyway. With no sure sign to follow, the younger ones, not yet fully educated, could get teased away from the main dogs by chance scents. Of course, old Juke wouldn't; but the others, when they did it, held things up.

The way lay ahead, almost due west. It was clear down by now, the fog had skyed, flooding with sunlight and the colors of the land deep and rich. It wasn't too long before Alec gradually came to notice that, as a lone figure, Sam seemed to grow in him, so did it seem to grow in Sam.

It was nothing that he noticed right off; it was all built of small things, not thought of as much of anything to themselves, until he looked back on them all together and knew then that something was wrong and maybe had been all along. But when it first seemed to him that Sam was giving more heed to the remote baying on their right, he didn't think anything of it.

It was in one of the stops that Alec noticed how carefully Sam listened. He sat on a stone, mopping his face, as was his way, holding his head to one side.

There was another thing that Alec slowly grew aware of. While they seemed to stop more often as time went on, so, too, were the stops shorter. Hardly would Sam ease down on a rock, or whatever there was for him to sit on, than the baying of Shivers' hounds, miles off though it seemed, would pull him willy-nilly to his feet again.

"Only one clear thought occurred itself in Alec's consciousness. Rusty. Rusty had done this, rusting, crushing thing . . . The story continues here tomorrow."

Explorer Post 45 Gets Certificate For Safety Project

Explorer Post 45 has been awarded the Certificate of Merit by the Department of Public Safety of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. This Certificate was awarded in acknowledgement of the untiring efforts on behalf of the safety and well-being of the citizens and guests of this Commonwealth.

Post 45 was one of the three units in the Four Rivers Council which participated in this safety project. A Troop in Paducah and a Post in Fulton were the other two.

This project is only one of the projects Post 45 has participated in the past year. The new Explorer program, a program for high school boys has six experience areas which are designed to build character, citizenship and physical traits in our youth of today.

Post 45 sponsored by the Methodist Men's Club of the First Methodist Church although only a little over a year old has a record of activities of which they can be proud. Their activities cover all six of the experience areas which are: Social, Vocational, Outdoor, Personal Fitness and Citizenship. As projects of this kind have some cost to them and all activities have to be financed by money raised by the boys themselves occasionally the public is asked to support one of these projects. The National Council of the Boy Scouts of America lays down the rules and regulations which all units must follow. No article may be sold or any project participated in which the customer does not receive value for his money.

One such project Post 45 is now planning is the Pancake Breakfast to be held in the American Legion Hall Saturday, Dec. 9. We are not asking you to buy a ticket just to help us out but really want you to come down and eat with us. We believe you will say the meal is worth the price, 75¢ after you have tried it. Ask any one of the many people who have eaten with us in the past. So come on down and eat all the pancakes, sausage, butter, syrup and coffee you want.

Forty-five members were present. The vice-president, Ann Kelly,

Ellis, was in charge of the program, "Duties of An Officer." Debbie Kelly led the group in games. The meeting was adjourned then by the president.

WE SUPPORT WHERE WE SERVE

for our communities we pay... TAXES

Total Tax Payments Since 1943:

$302,498

That's our fair share of support to local schools, hospitals, streets, highways, and necessary, worth-while community services. We are proud to make tax payments because we realize that taxes mean better roads, better law enforcement, better schools—a better place to live.

OUR TAX DOLLARS IN ACTION:

To the right you will see how our tax payments have been distributed since the electric system began operations. Each year we pay taxes and tax equivalents to our local governments. This money is our fair share of supporting local community services. Murray Electric System is the city's largest tax payer. It is the county's largest tax payer. Tax payments are based on 100% book value of the system. For example, in 1961, our total taxes amount to $306,366. Here is how our 1961 tax money is distributed: City of Murray, $115,163 (including $1,782 hospital tax); Murray Graded School District, $17,167; Common School District, $615; Calloway County, $6,863 (including $1,293 hospital tax); and State of Kentucky, $4,826. Our taxes increase each year because our system value increases. Paying our fair share of taxes is another way we serve you and your community.

State of Kentucky	$ 39,774.22
City of Murray	68,775.37
Calloway County	54,014.92
Murray Graded School District	124,158.04
Common School District	15,775.37

Total Taxes Since 1943 $302,497.92

this . . . you'll be interested in:

HOSPITALS . . .

A part of both our city and county tax payments is designated as a hospital tax. It has been estimated that the cost per patient unit of the new hospital is $22,000. As our taxes will be increasing every year, in five or six years our payments earmarked for the hospital tax will pay for one complete patient unit based on the estimated cost of $22,000 per patient unit. Our tax money works for the community.

SCHOOLS . . .

The average annual operating cost per student in the Murray schools is $242 per year. The taxes that we pay to Murray Graded School District will pay the annual operating cost for 71 students for one year. Or, based on average teacher salaries in the City, our tax payment will provide the salaries of 4 teachers for one year. Again, our tax money works for the community.
